Students are eligible for summer school classes if they had a 45% or higher as their final course grade. For students who are taking a course for credit recovery, there will be a “reteach, retest” approach to the course. The summer school instructor will examine the scores the student had during the regular school year and will find where the student did not do well. During the summer school classes, the student will be retaught the information and then retest. The re-teaching may be done by the teacher OR the student may work on material through a PLATO course for additional instruction. There will be some offline work required, and this will be done with teachers during the class meeting times.

As soon as a student completes the course successfully by attaining a passing grade of 60% or above, they will no longer be required to attend class. Students may be able to take pre-tests on material which may exempt them from certain activities.

COST TO STUDENTS:
